FREE YOUR PLAY

We believe kids today miss the types of experiences we enjoyed in our childhood. This is why we are encouraging parents to step outside the repetition of their family's over-crowded daily routine; rediscover an offline-no agenda creative balance with their kids by engaging in outside free play, moments of play that are truly unstructured, spontaneous and imaginative. We want to encourage more families to embrace this idea by providing them with accessible activities and simple ideas to help their children develop their creativity by freely playing outside.
